My dear Mother;-

Yesterday when I returned home I found your nice long letter telling me that grandmother was so much better and that you approved of me being in the law office , which I had succeeded in getting in to, alhof which I was very glad to hear.

If any of those catalogues that you mentioned in your last letter came from New York city I wish you would forward them on to me THE girl that the postal came from is a very good sort of a girl, awfully pretty, whom I used to wait on down at the store every time she came in, the worst part about her being her illiteracy in writing. I suppose she will be very apt to see me if she comes back to town as I am still at the store.

One of the best opportunites in my life is open to me now. One evening last week over at the house where I was talking to a lawyer who told me that he knew that a certian young man in the office of a prominent lawyer herein town, was going to leave him to take the secretary ship to a supreme Judge. SO the next morning I got an hour off down at the store and went over to see him. This lawyer, Mr. Morrisson Wait, one of the most prominent lawyers in town I finally succeeded in getting an interview with. He explained that what I wanted to do was to get in his office and I purposely did not tell him that I knew that the other fellow was going to leave him, whereupon after asking all sorts of questions he told me that he would consider the question and that I could come back to him the next tuesday week, which is now next Tuesday. You see by that time the othe fellow will be gone and may be I will get in since I was there applying first.

Another thing that has done me much good is that I have found a law by which I can be a notary public so you see I will soon have that too.

Hopeing to here from you soon

I am your boy
